While every effort is made to ensure accuracy in this program, graduation filing deadlines, printing deadlines and degree audit adjustments can prevent inclusion of graduates' names or may result in publishing names of individuals not completing degree requirements. This program, therefore, should not be used to determine a student's official academic or degree status.

KEYNOTE SPEAKER DR. CONRAD GUBERA

Dr. Conrad Gubera, professor of sociology and international studies at Missouri Southern, has taught at the university since the new campus opened in 1967.

A graduate of Pierce City High School, he studied at Joplin Junior College before completing his bachelor's degree at Pittsburg State University in 1962. After teaching history and English at Mount Vernon High School and history and sociology at Joplin High School from 1963-65, he obtained his master's degree in sociology at PSU.

Gubera helped create the general education framework and the BA/BS undergraduate sociology degrees for Missouri Southern while serving on the Faculty Senate and a plethora of college committees. During the 1970s, he completed a Ph.D. in sociology from Oklahoma State University.

Over the course of nearly five decades, he has taught a variety of courses, including Introduction to Sociology, Social Problems, Introduction to International Studies, The Arab World, Sociology of Aging, the Sociology of Death and Dying, Comparative Cultures, Social Theory and Introduction to Egyptology, just to name a few. He was the recipient of the Outstanding Teacher Award in 1996 and the Outstanding International Teacher Award a decade later.

A fellow with the National Council on U.S.-Arab Relations since 1987 and the East-West Center since 1998, he has visited more than 30 countries, earned three Fulbright Awards, awards from the Japan Foundation and the Niagara Foundation, as well as the government of Saudi Arabia. He has also received five grants from Missouri Southern's Institute of International Studies, through which he escorted five different student groups to Mexico, Belize, Honduras and Guatemala, where they studied ancient Mayan culture.

On campus, he has served on the Faculty Senate, as a member of the International Studies Supervisory Committee, the faculty sponsor for the Model Arab League and the Sociology Club, a presenter for a variety of international programs as part of Missouri Southern's themed semesters, and led a variety of study-abroad groups.

Dr. Gubera's four children have all attended Missouri Southern, three of whom hold undergraduate degrees from the university. His daughter, Kristin, is an adjunct instructor in the Kinesiology Department. With his oldest son, Christopher, he co-produced the award-winning 2012 documentary, "Joplin, Missouri: A Tornado Story."

Students who received MSSU academic credit for studying abroad through an MSSU-sponsored or recognized program are wearing a sash today representing the country or countries where they studied. Since 1995, MSSU has sent more than 3,100 students abroad to reflect its statewide mission in global education.

POINTS OF PRIDE

Three officers commissioned through Show-Me Gold program

Three members of the Show-Me-Gold officer training program at Missouri Southern are now wearing the single gold bars of second lieutenants in the Missouri National Guard.

Nathan Skaggs, Carl Junction; Quinn Hobbs, Neosho; and Brandon Walker, Webb City, attended Officer Candidate School (OCS) during the summer at Fort Meade in South Dakota. They were officially commissioned as officers in a ceremony on Sept. 10 at the Missouri State Capitol building in Jefferson City.

Each of the three earned special recognition during the ceremony. Skaggs was the recipient of the Neilson Rudd Award, selected by his peers. Walker received the Staff Award, which was chosen by the cadre. Hobbs received the Tactical Tiger Award for the highest score on the tactics exam and FLER.

"We're very proud of their achievement," says Capt. Chase Phillips, professor of military science at Missouri Southern.

The Show-Me Gold program has now produced four commissioned officers. The first – Josh Turner – graduated in May.

Officer Candidate School involves two months of intensive training and evaluation on leadership skills, learning and decision-making.

Smith named regional vice president for PBL

Emmalee Smith, a junior marketing and management major from Carthage, has been elected to serve as the vice president for the North Central Region of Phi Beta Lambda.

The PBL club is the collegiate equivalent of Future Business Leaders of America – an educational association of post-secondary student members preparing for careers in business. The election took place during the PBL National Leadership Conference held during the summer in Atlanta, Ga.

"This is the 75th year for FBLA-PBL, so my slogan was 'Emmalee Smith in the 75th.' The color theme went along with the organization's colors – blue and gold," she said. My speech and campaign revolved around their three pillars – service, education and progress. I'm very passionate about the organization."

As vice president for the North Central Region, she will serve as the primary student liaison between the national organization and chapters in Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan, Minnesota, Ohio and Wisconsin.

Geography lab unveiled along with new major

The addition of a geography lab is helping to put the new major on the map at Missouri Southern.

The creation of the lab is a result of a minor degree growing into a larger program, said Steve Smith, professor of geography. After being approved by the state last year, 2016-17 is the first year for geography to be offered as a major.

"Geography and spatial science are among the top 25 job fields in the United States right now," said Smith. "What we wanted was essentially an interactive classroom environment ... a space that accommodates a bank of computers and space for lab classes and traditional lectures."

"A decision was made to combine two rooms on the second floor of Webster Hall. The wall was taken down and we put in a dual-projection system, topographic maps, globes and new carpeting. The idea was to create a space that's visually interesting, and more than just a traditional classroom."

Mansion added to National Historic Register

A dedication ceremony in honor of the Lucius P. Buchanan mansion's addition to the National Register of Historic Places was held Oct. 21, at the Missouri Southern Alumni Center.

Built in 1926 by Lucius P. "Buck" Buchanan, a wealthy mining developer, the mansion was constructed with a Spanish motif. It was reportedly inspired by a house he saw in Puerto Rico. After Buchanan's death in 1939, it was purchased by Frank C. and Juanita Wallower.

In 1964, the land and buildings upon it were purchased by the Jasper County Junior College District. The 320-acre Missouri Southern State College campus opened in 1967, with the residence housing classrooms and offices.

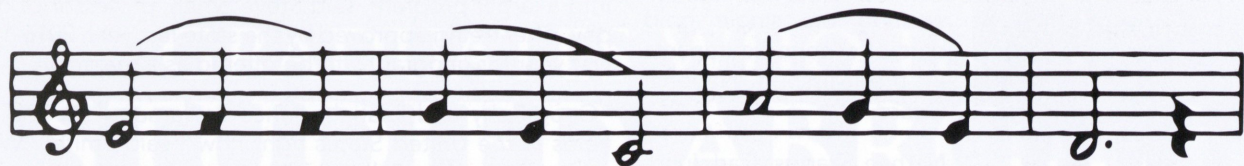

In 2004, a project began to renovate the mansion, which had fallen into disrepair. The oldest building on campus became the Ralph L. Gray Alumni Center and the permanent home of the MSSU Alumni Association.

"To have this designation for Missouri Southern and Joplin is an amazing accomplishment," said Lee Elliff Pound, director of the Alumni Association. "Not everyone has the chance to work in such a gorgeous facility with such rich history, and be able to call their workplace home."

Missouri Southern State University's "Alma Mater" was drafted during the Joplin Junior College second year by a group that included Mary Laird, Joan Epperson, Enos Currey, Ellen Beasley and Emerson Jackson. Laird was principally responsible for the lyrics while Jackson set it to music. It was first sung during a Class-Day program in 1939.

ACADEMIC ATTIRE AND REGALIA CORDS

As early as the 12th century, the first modern universities – at Bologna and Paris – were centers of European learning. The usual garb of the time, for both churchmen and laymen, was a long gown which was necessary for warmth in the unheated buildings of the day. Scholars, generally members of church orders, wore such robes and also hoods to protect their shaven heads. Later, skull caps were worn on the head and the hood became a cape which could be pulled over the head in unpleasant weather. The hood was also sometimes used to collect alms from the more affluent members of the community. As additional universities were founded, distinctive forms of the gown and hood were adopted by their faculties. Variations indicated ranks within the institutions. Strict rules were published and in some cases punishment cited for tailors who departed from the authorized design.

The academic hat was a later development, adapted from the headdress of the ordinary people. Academically, it was originally worn as a symbol of the master's degree, and existed in various forms: some were round, some square and some had a tuft in the center. The flat, square "mortar board" of today originated at Oxford University in England.

Academic costume came to America in 1754 with the founding of King's College, now Columbia University. Styles became quite varied as they were in Europe, but in 1895 a group of American college and university representatives met to establish a uniform system of academic apparel for this country. This led to the establishment in 1902 of an "Intercollegiate Code of Academic Costume." The American Council of Education formed a committee in 1932 to review the 1895 code, which was again reviewed and revised in both 1960 and 1965.

There are today three basic types of gowns and hoods. The bachelor's gown has pointed sleeves and is designed to be worn closed. Recipients of the associate degrees wear gray gowns designed like the bachelor's gown. The master's gown is designed with an oblong sleeve, open at the wrist and with an arc cut away at the front of the sleeve. It may be worn either open or closed. The doctoral gown is of a full design with voluminous sleeves, and it also may be worn open or closed. Unlike the other two, the doctoral gown is faced down the front with velvet and with three velvet bars on the sleeves. These may be black or a color related to the subject of the degree. Thus, arts, letters and humanities may be white, business degrees may be drab or sapphire blue, education uses light blue, fine arts is brown, music is pink and science is golden yellow, to name a few.

The caps are always black, with a black tassel for baccalaureate degrees and a tassel of the color indicated above for master's degrees. Doctoral caps usually have a tassel of metallic gold color.

The hoods worn by master's degree recipients are lined with the official colors of the institution awarding the degree. The binding and edging of the hood is silk or velvet in the color pertaining to the subject area. Doctoral hoods are longer and designed somewhat fuller, but the colors again are those of the institution granting the degree for the lining, and of the subject for the wide edging. There exists a small bachelor's hood, but generally it is not used in this country.

The hoods represented in MSSU ceremonies are a combination of colors from each of the collaborating institutions. Traditional colors and corresponding fields of study are:
